

THE IMMENSE HALLWAY (Tizian Schenker, 2008)

I strolled down an immense hallway
Extensive details could be seen in the light of day
I felt minute in comparison...
So far, I have trekked uncountable acres
I was at the final few meters
So long the path has been
I stood in front of the final door, stunned
The end was bright and blurred my vision
I looked at my hand, it clutched the handle with tension
Trapped I have been, too long!
I observed a colossal desert, lit in dawn
It was an euphoric moment, if I may mention

So I was gone

Full of sorrow we bid farewell to our beloved son and to my dearest brother. Your kind demeanor and warm radiance, your brilliant intellect and uncompromising sincerity, we will deeply miss forever. In this life you didn't have the chance to bring to fruition your countless talents but you touched our hearts and enlightened our minds – you gave us so much. For this we admire you and are eternally grateful.
